

M'CALL CONFESSES KILLING KIDNAP VICTIM

BOMBER WRECKED; 8 PERISH

Delavan, Ill., Is Scene
of Tragedy; Identification Awaited

(By Associated Press)
DELAVAN, Ill., June 10.—Eight army air corps men were killed
today in the crash of a huge army bomber on the Youle farm north of here during a brief but violent storm.

Miss Laura Youle said she believed the craft was struck by lightning.

Bodies Strwn Around
"There was an explosion, debris flew in the air and the ship came down about a half mile from the farmhouse," she said. "It fell in muddy ground. Wings and fuselage were badly torn. At least seven bodies were strewn around, some wearing unopened parachutes, and one was still in the plane."

An army bomber carrying three officers and five enlisted men was missing on a flight from Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., to Denver, Colo.
Air corps authorities at Rantoul
would not say definitely the crashed plane was the missing bomber, but admitted they had been out of communication with the ship for hours.

CITY MIBS KING RETAINS THRONE

Title and Qualify
For Canton Play

Displaying the same accuracy
which carried him to the city marble championship last year, Bob Pasco, 13-year old seventh grade student, successfully defended his title against the threats of seven other boys in the finals of The Salem News marble tournament at Reilly stadium Thursday afternoon.

Bob captured his second straight city mibs' championship by defeating each of the other seven finalists. He clearly demonstrated his superiority over the other mibsters
and was unquestionably the best of the eight shooters who advanced to the finals after more than six weeks of elimination play in Salem schools.

Goes to Canton Saturday Bob will go to Canton tomorrow as Salem's representa-

REVEAL WOMAN, DEATH WITNESS, STILL MISSING

Mahoning Detective On Stand In Ross Murder Trial

EAST CLEVELAND
WOMAN IS SOUGHT

Betty Jaynes One of Last
Persons To See Roy
Marino Alive

YOUNGSTOWN, June 10.—Betty Jaynes of East Cleveland, a state witness and one of the last persons to see Roy (Happy) Marino alive, has been missing for months.
County Detective John Callan testified just today at the first degree murder trial of Herbert Ross of Cleveland.

Ross is the second of five indicted men to go on trial for the Marino slaying.

Callan said Miss Jaynes was questioned by county officials after Marino's body was found near Rogers, Columbiana county. She was released to go home on the promise she would return to testify, he said.

Efforts to locate her since have failed, he said.

Drove To Cafe
The woman told officials, Callan said, that she met Marino at a downtown hotel, and they drove to an east end cafe where he said "a couple of men want to see me here." She waited several hours, then went back to her hotel, she
said.

Andrew Marino, a brother, testified today that Roy left the home of his mother where he was having dinner the night he was slain, shortly after he talked to someone in a "large dark car" which had stopped in front of the Marino home.

Other witnesses told of seeing Marino in a drug store and a cafe
a short time later. John Chick, cave owner, said Marino was "followed by a stranger" when he left the place.

Two high school boys testified of seeing a large dark car parked in the shadow of a tree near the cafe.
They became suspicious, they said,
when women in the car tried to hide their faces as lights from approaching cars illuminated the machine.

Aerial view of district where crime occurred, with insets, left to right, of James Cash, Sr.; the slain Jimmy, Jr.; and Franklin McCall, suspect. Here is an air-diagram view of the district where James Bailey Cash, Sr., was kidnaped from his Princeton, Fla., home and slain, his body found hidden in a clump of underbrush half a mile from the Cash residence. Principals in the case were James Cash, Sr., who paid $10,000 ransom in an effort to recover his son, James, Jr., victim, and Franklin McCall, 21-year-old truck driver, held in connection with the case after he had confessed to writing the ransom notes and obtaining the $10,000 ransom.

REVEALS DETAILS OF CRIME

Said He Had No Confederates In Abduction Tragedy

(By Associated Press)
MIAMI, Fla., June 10.—J.
Edgar Hoover announced today Franklin Pierce McCall had confessed the entire Cash kidnaping and that he killed five-year-old James Bailey Cash, Jr.

The director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said McCall's admission detailed that he stole the boy from his bedroom while he slept, placing a handkerchief over the child's mouth and another over his eyes and took Skeegie to his home,
where he found the boy was dead.

McCall had no confederates
at any stage of the case, Hoover reported.

McCall said he thought at first the boy still was asleep, Hoover declared, but when he found after about 15 minutes he was dead, he took the child in his arms and ran and walked to a spot in the woods near his home with which he was well acquainted from hunting trips.

There he flung the body into a dense thicket where it was found early yesterday morning.

Having disposed of the body,
Hoover continued, McCall returned to his own home to get the first of three ransom notes which he had written in advance.

Then, despite the death of the little victim, he took it to the shack
of a Negro, John Emanuel. Disguis-ing his voice, McCall tried to persuade the Negro to take it to James Bailey Cash, Sr. When Emanuel became frightened and fled, McCall placed it under his door.

Prepare For Funeral
At Princeton, the parents prepared to bury their five-year-old only child, whose body was found early yesterday 12 days after he was stolen from the Cash home.

som money, $9,750 from one place

Vacation School Will Open Monday

All boys and girls, 14 or under,
are invited to attend the vacation Bible school which will start at 9:15 a. m. Monday in the Junior High school building on Fourth st.

The school will operate five days
each week for the next two weeks.
The time of classes is 9:15 to 11:30
a. m. The theme is "Ideals in The Life of Christ" and this will be emphasized daily in the Bible study, music, dramatization and craftwork.

Experienced and well-trained Christian leaders are in charge of each department. They are donating their time and talents to the school. The cooperation of the parents is invited so that this first union school may pave the way for a still bigger and better school in the future years, Rev. S.
Magann, program chairman, said.

Each boy and girl able to do so is asked to bring 10 cents each week to help pay for the handwork supplies.

Their Mouths Were Full of Deceit and Fraud (Psalms 10:7)

Mayor George Harroff yesterday proved the nemesis of a group of five youths and their manager who were soliciting, house to house, for magazine subscriptions.

The boys were selling the magazines on the claim that they were attempting to earn money to go to college, where they intended to study for the ministry.

Two of the youths erred when they told prospective customers they were to preach in certain local churches on Sunday. One of the ministers learned of it and called the mayor.

Police shortly afterwards rounded up the entire crew. When they admitted they had lied, Mayor Harroff told them to go back and apologize
to the subscribers they had secured.
They did this and also returned the money they had received.

The boys, as well as the manager,
breathed easier when they learned
they were not heading for the jail.
They left town immediately.

Pre-School Clinic Scheduled Tuesday

A pre-school clinic will be held Tuesday morning in the high school building, starting at 8.
Every child who will start to school for the first time next September is expected to attend the clinic, accompanied by his or her parents. Local doctors and dentists will make the examinations at the direction of the school nurse, Miss Frances Markovich.

The family physician and the parents will be notified of any defects found. Parents are urged by board of health authorities to have the defect corrected during the summer, before the child starts to school.

"It's Only The Beginning" Salem Graduates Are Told

Keep Studying and Use Your Resources, 162 Seniors
Told As They Receive Diplomas

One hundred and sixty-two Salem
High school Seniors received diplomas at commencement exercises
Thursday night in the High school auditorium.

The graduates, some of them on the flower-bedecked stage, and others seated directly in front of the stage, held their heads high, their eyes sparkling as proud parents, friends and relatives looked on.

Frederick P. Mullins, president of the board of education, reminded the graduates "it is only the beginning."

"Schools and colleges," he said, "do not pretend to give you an education; they merely try to show you how to educate yourself. If you are to attain the comforts and pleasures of life that you desire, you must ever be on the alert to broaden and deepen your knowledge, to sharpen your intellect."

Keep Studying
"You can do this," he continued,
"by studying history, by reading good books, by keeping posted on current affairs, on the problems of government which loom very large at the present time, and by careful observation of other people."

The speaker called upon the graduates to follow Benjamin Franklin's fundamental principle of utilizing one's time, energy and resources every day to the utmost of one's ability. In the words of Poor Richard—"Don't squander time, for that's the stuff life is made of."

which set the United States government apart from those of other

The following is the text of an appeal which Frederick P. Mullins, president of the school board, delivered at the Salem High school
commencement Thursday night, asking Salem voters to support the school's proposed $65,000 building program.

"With the indulgence of the graduating class, I would like to take a few minutes before addressing them, to talk to the mothers and fathers and friends who are here in the audience. I think we can safely assume that every one here tonight is a friend of the Salem schools. Even though you may be here to witness the graduation of your only child or your youngest and last child to graduate from school, I am sure you are all sufficiently broad-minded, and generous enough of heart to have a friendly interest in the young people who are in future years to come up on this stage for their graduation."

Prominent Landmark Goes As Church Building Rises

Interesting Early-Salem History Surrounds Site of Presbyterian Educational Structure

To make way for the educational building of the new Presbyterian church property, the recent removal of the 100-year-old frame building on the corner of E. Second st. and N.
Lundy ave. marked the passing of one of the prominent landmarks of Salem.

In 1833, for a consideration of $50
the church purchased lot 45 from Charles Jones, and in 1834 purchased lot 45 from Samuel Davis,
the two forming the old church property.

The corner property remained a residence until 1912, when it was purchased by the First Presbyterian church and used thereafter as an educational building. This is now being replaced by a brick structure, the cornerstone of which will be laid Sunday morning.

By a deed dated Aug. 9, 1806, executed by President Thomas Jefferson, the land was transferred by the federal government to Samuel Davis. In 1833 he sold it to Clayton Sharp, who in 1836 sold it to Daniel Bonnell and the same year he sold it to Joseph J. Brooks.

CROSSING PROTECTION

The financial plight of most railroads in the country is a major problem confronting the government as well as the rail executives. The Pennsylvania railroad is no exception. It is not difficult to understand, therefore, why it hesitates to increase its expenditures involved in providing adequate protection at the W. Pershing and Wilson st. crossings in Salem.

It necessarily adds to operating costs to provide such protection, at a time when reductions are imperative. But Pennsylvania executives might well give thought to the possibility of renewed demands for overhead crossings in Salem if they do not heed city council's present demands that protection be provided at those crossings now unprotected.

The grade elimination proposal has been dormant for a few years, but it can, and may be revived if the railroad company continues to turn a deaf ear to the city's justified insistence that it protect all the grade crossings within the corporation. The only question that seems to confront the company is whether it can afford to ignore council's demands.

LOOKING AHEAD

In presenting diplomas to 162 graduates of Salem High school last night, President P. P. Mullins of the board of education gave these young people some sound and timely advice when he warned them that they are not completing, but actually just beginning their education.

Schools, he told them, merely try to prepare them for self-education. For a comparatively brief period in the life ahead of them, these boys and girls may not fully comprehend the importance of that statement. It will dawn upon some sooner than others, no doubt, but it will not be long until all will realize that the benefits and pleasure of a full life come only to those who continue to seek knowledge in the practical world which they are entering.

In a world more complex than the world their parents found when they completed their school work, these graduates soon will find their places. Opportunities still abound for those who prepare themselves to meet them. College training is becoming more desirable year by year, but all cannot take advantage of such a course. To those who have learned how to get the most education out of practical life will come these opportunities, whether or not they continue their preparatory course in college.

THE TROUBLE WITH STATES' RIGHTS

The Ohio legislature petitioning congress to appropriate $250,000,000 for direct relief so this state can get $20,000,000 without levying taxes—

The Ohio legislature shadow boxing with the relief problem days and weeks after money for relief has been used up in some large cities—

The Ohio legislature stalling for time and waiting for something to turn up, the "something" in this case being a shower of manna from Washington—

This is what's wrong with states' rights—states which aren't interested in any rights which cost money, such as the right to be independent of Washington when there's a relief crisis.

ONE MORE COMMITTEE

The quick Republican response to defeat of the Hatch amendment to the spend-land bill proves how gravely the Democrats blundered. This was the amendment which would have prohibited use of WPA funds for political purposes.

By defeating it, gentlemen who wouldn't think of stealing anything from relief of the unemployed for their own use seemed to go on record in favor of letting someone else do it if he can get away with it. Republicans immediately pointed out that a campaign issue had been created for them.

Democrats parried the thrust Wednesday—10 of them did, at least—by proposing that a committee be appointed to investigate any charges of politics in relief arising this year.

This is a good deal like telling the child where to find the pistol and the bullets, secure in the knowledge that if anything happens a committee will be on hand to view the remains.

CEILING AND FLOOR

Rumblings of doubt about constitutionality of a wage-hour law are being heard. They signify the opposition is grasping at its last straw.

The important thing about wage-hour legislation is that it promises to be a counterpart of the un-lamented NRA as far as administration is concerned. It would give the federal government authority over tens of thousands of employers and millions of employees.

There exists no administrative machinery to do this. There exists no knowledge of how many employers and employees now stand below the minimum wage and maximum hour standards which the law would create. There exists only a burning ambition to do something noble and good—to build a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours.

Whether or not such a project is constitutional doesn't matter at this moment. Whether or not it can be done is all that matters. As in the case of NRA, which was found impossible long before it was found unconstitutional, an adverse decision by the court merely would be an act of mercy once the law had bogged down under its own weight.

For Saturday, June 11

A rather difficult and unsatisfactory day may be looked for, judging by certain planets. Deceptive and undermining influences prevail, with dangers of loss, vexation and disappointment in both business and personal affiliations. Loans are inadvisable and investments hazardous. Be careful with writings, law and documents, also short journeys and youthful indiscretions.

Those whose birthday it is may not have a particularly progressive year, as treacherous and hazardous conditions prevail, calling for much sagacity, watchfulness and discretion in both personal and business affairs. Lost legal papers may complicate matters. Loans and investments are perilous.

A child born on this day may be versatile, quick in thought and action, fond of travel, new situations and change. It may drift into some calling where these traits and its volubility may count for success.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

FIRST AID

Neglect of a simple injury, even a scratch, may lead to serious blood poisoning. This is not a pleasant suggestion, yet it is true. This is why I wish to point out the importance of efficient first aid. In every home there should be facilities for such treatment. This should be applied regardless of how trivial the accident may seem.

According to several insurance surveys, a goodly number of dangerous accidents take place in the home. In these, the reports indicate, all too often, the wrong thing is done. In many instances serious complications could have been avoided if proper and immediate emergency treatment had been given.

It is important to remember that a wound or a contusion may permit the entrance of dangerous germs. For this reason the damaged tissues should be thoroughly cleansed with warm water and soap. Following this procedure an antiseptic should be applied and a clean bandage placed over the wound.

Your efforts should not stop at this point. What has been done so far is no more than first aid. Further treatment should be given by your doctor. Medical attention is absolutely essential if the main continues and the swelling increases.

Bleeding Is Common

Bleeding is a common home emergency. It may occur as a result of a fall, a blow or a single cut. The bleeding may be so profuse as actually to be dangerous.

To control such bleeding, a constricting bandage or a home-made "tourniquet" should be applied. A handkerchief knotted around the limb, or a necktie, piece of rope or a belt tied about it, can be tightened by slipping a stick under and twisting it. This device should be placed just above the level of the wound.

It is dangerous to allow the tourniquet to remain in place for any prolonged length of time. If there is any delay in the arrival of the doctor, the tourniquet should be loosened occasionally and then re-applied.

Accidental poisoning is another common home calamity. It frequently occurs in children who mistake dangerous drugs for candy. Such drugs should be carefully labeled and placed beyond the reach of children.

Severe burns as well as internal poisoning caused by the accidental use of lye and other caustic solutions are common home accidents. These chemicals should always be kept in a separate container apart from other receptacles that are used daily.

When poisoning occurs and if the antidote is not known, a doctor should be called without the slightest delay. Until he arrives, encourage the victim to drink large amounts of water. If you know the antidote, administer it at once.

OUR READERS

WAGES AND FINANCES

Editor, The News: There seems to be considerable discussion in your paper lately on the subject of fear and there is one fear that isn't even mentioned. That fear is repossession of contract goods by finance companies. The contracts are so written as to deprive the purchaser of redress in court although the merchandise might be 85 or 90 per cent paid for. Also there is no provision made for sickness or depressions although these conditions are beyond the control of the purchaser.

Those who bought goods some two years ago on a three-year payment plan are now confronted with the possibility of losing those goods by repossession.

I believe that in all contracts some provision should be made for unemployment and sickness to protect the purchaser. That act would stimulate buying to a great extent. Also every one could not get credit and better investigation would result.

Now for this $200 per month old age pension plan to spur recovery. I believe I have a plan more in keeping with good common sense, as our government is constantly harping to business to keep wages up. The plan is feasible with only a small act of congress.

We have some millions of WPA workers in this country receiving a small wage of $52 monthly, which in itself is only an existence. So if the government wants to practice what it preaches pay the WPA worker $200 monthly and get some value for his work. They will spend it all right.

When a person passes 65 years old he or she doesn't buy cars, or very much heavy merchandise. Then again the passage of $200 per month pension would necessitate a new set up and perhaps a million investigators to see that they spent it. This 2 per cent tax could be levied at once to take care of the increased pay for the WPA worker.

Private industry would then be compelled to meet the wage standard set by the government. I am not a WPA worker yet, but if nothing is done soon I probably will be there, too, with the rest. And after all Mr. Editor we must live. It's great to rap President Roosevelt but let's hear some plan to change the situation. Hazen P. Hunter, Washingtonville

FRENCH TO MEET GERMAN PROPAGANDA DRIVE

(ADVANCE). Paris — (Correspondence of The Associated Press)

Premier Edouard Deladier's government has launched a counter-offensive against what is described as a large-scale Nazi propaganda campaign in Alsace-Lorraine.

The activity of German agents in the provinces recovered by France as a result of the World war has impressed the government so seriously that Vice Premier Camille Chauvins has been assigned to Alsatian affairs exclusively.

Early this spring Joseph Paul-Boncour, then foreign minister, told the chamber of deputies foreign affairs committee that Nazi agents were increasing their attempts to turn the German-speaking citizens of Alsace-Lorraine against France.

He declared the provinces were "full of Hitlerian intrigues" calculated to convince Alsations they must return to German rule.

After the Saar plebiscite, Jan. 15, 1935, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler solemnly proclaimed that return of the territory to Germany marked the end of Nazi territorial demands in France, but French officials charge that Prussian-born Hermann Bickler, chief of the Autonomist party in Alsace-Lorraine, is seeking autonomy only to return the provinces to Germany.

Bickler, who became a naturalized Frenchman after the war, publicly declared it "a self-evident cause" that the "people of Alsace-Lorraine constitute a national minority inside France" and declared "the entire world no doubt has learned that we are of German language and character."

Whereupon the German newspaper "Elz" declared: "Alsace refuses more than ever, forced assimilation into France."

While most of the nearly 2,000,000 inhabitants of Alsace-Lorraine speak German, French officials dispute Bickler's claim the population is of "German character." Deputy Salomon Grumbach, vice president of the chamber of deputies foreign affairs committee, told a Strasbourg meeting "Alsations are Frenchmen speaking a German dialect."

The main theme of Nazi propagandists is the economic situation. Since the Saar plebiscite, Lorraine iron pays heavy duties to enter the Saar basin where it is smelted. Customs duties hit Alsatian agricultural products sent to the large German Rhineland cities. The Nazis argue union with the Reich would improve trade and bring prosperity back to the provinces.

One French official summed it up as follows: "France cannot forget that, despite Hitler's protestations of territorial peace with France, the German fuhrer wrote in his book 'Mein Kampf' that France, the traditional enemy, must be destroyed, that all German-speaking peoples must be returned to the Reich. He has applied the teachings of his book one by one. That speaks louder for us than his speeches."

TOLEDO—John N. Edy saves Toledoans money by filling the posts of city manager safety director and finance director, but his triple official role is not approved by the court of appeals. The city manager has sole authority to name the directors, but the court held that he could not personally perform the duties.

"CONTRABAND" by Dennis Wheatley

SYNOPSIS

When Gregory Sallust first saw the girl in the Casino at Deauville, it was near midnight on the last day of the young Englishman's leisurely tour through Normandy. Sallust, a former Intelligence officer, is now confidential investigator for a great British commercial corporation. The girl, tall and beautiful, came into the gaming room accompanied by a strange little man, not a dwarf yet curiously ill-proportioned, whom Gregory recognized as a sinister figure in international affairs. When, at midnight, the girl left the Casino alone, Sallust followed her. She walked a few blocks, entered a private limousine and took the road to Trouville a mile away. Following in a taxi, Gregory saw a man in a leather aviator's coat enter the big car at the edge of the village. The two proceeded through the narrow streets, leaving the limousine near a cheap cafe. They disappeared up a narrow stairway. Gregory was about to turn away when a sharp cry caused him to dash across the street, race up the stairs and fling his weight against the only door beneath which a light appeared. In one corner three roughly dressed men had the man in the aviator's coat pinned beneath them. With a broken bottle as a weapon Gregory leaps into the fray. The airman escapes, followed by his assailants. The girl, Sabine, thanks her rescuer. They must, Gregory insists, get away before the police come. On the way out, Gregory picks up a notecase from the floor and hastily thrusts it into his pocket. They go to his hotel.

CHAPTER III

Gregory paid off the taxi with a lavish tip and followed her into the hotel. As they passed into the lounge he took her arm again and whispered: "We won't stay here. There are too few people about at this hour. We are certain to be noticed. We'll go out through the other entrance and along to the Normandie." "But why should there be people in quantity there more than here?" she questioned. "There won't," he answered tersely, "but the taxi-man set us down here so it's as well to get out of this place as quickly as possible in case he's questioned." "As you will," Sabine allowed him to lead her out and they walked the few hundred yards to the other hotel. At the entrance he paused and faced her. "Listen, Sabine!" he spoke with unusual firmness. "Any argument will draw attention to us. I am staying here so there must be no argument. Do as I say or else the police will get us and we shall both spend the night in an uncomfortable cell." "But..." She was about to make a protest. "Stop it," he cut her short abruptly. "I hate to remind you of the fact, but it was you who took the fellow who was attacked to that cafe, so it is you whom the police will want to talk to. Remember, he may have been murdered by you for all we know." "All right," she murmured and made no further protest. On the pretext of asking at the desk for a message he expected, Gregory found an opportunity to examine the notecase he had picked up in the cafe. A quick survey of its contents caused him to whistle softly. Returning to Sabine, he took her straight over to the left and upstairs to his room. "Now," he said, having closed the double doors behind him and thrown his coat upon the bed, "there's something going on, and I want to know about it." Gregory's gaze flitted out as he faced her in the quiet room, shut off from the world by the private bathroom, dressing closet and miniature hall. Gregory took the worn notecase from his pocket again and added quietly: "perhaps this will help us." The case contained 2,440 francs in notes of various denominations, several documents of identification, and a telegram. He spread out the latter and read it carefully. "This is written out in pencil—by a woman, I should judge. It's on a sending form so it has not yet been dispatched. It says: "Carot cafe de la Cloche Calais six 41 44 11 15 thence 46 seventh 43 47 eighth 43 again 47 Rogers." "Well, that doesn't help us much since it's in code," he added. "But it's interesting all the same, and it confirms my ideas about your charming self. Now, what do you know?" She stared at him with a lazy insolence in her hazel eyes. "If I knew anything why should I tell? Also, I do not regard the chance of being questioned by the police as of sufficient importance to risk my reputation by remaining in your room." A sudden smile that could on occasion make Gregory's lean face so attractive flashed over it. "Why?" he said softly with a new note in his voice. "We are both bad hats anyway—aren't we?" Just then the telephone which stood on the little table near the bed shrilled loudly. It was just behind her and she picked it up without the least hesitation. "Ulo!" she said. "merci... ah bon!... Adieu." Then she replaced the receiver. "As I thought," she turned back to him. "That call was for me. My friend whom you have seen with me in the Casino has many ways of knowing what I do. Someone in this hotel has told him of my presence here and he assures me that all is arranged so that there is no further likelihood of my being troubled by the police." She smiled—a little mocking smile of triumph at Gregory. "You understand? I must return to my friend. This little adventure has been quite amusing and I thank you for your courtesy, but now, Monsieur—it is over." Gregory smiled too. "I hate," he said, "to seem to press you, but I think you will see the wisdom of remaining here in hiding when I tell you I know from his papers that the man whom you lured to that dive tonight was an officer from Scotland Yard. If the French police knew that they would renew their desire to interview you despite anything that your very clever friend might do." "You mean to keep me here—against my will?" For the first time the self-confidence faded from Sabine's eyes. Almost instinctively she glanced behind her to see if there was another exit from the room. Gregory faced her across the broad low bed. His back was to the only door which gave on to the miniature hallway of the suite. Tall, lean, the suggestion of a smile pulling at his thin lips, he noted with quiet satisfaction that he had at last broken through her armor of casual ease. It was now well after one o'clock. Not a flicker of an eyelid betrayed Gregory's determination to take with both hands this golden hour which it seemed that the gods had decreed for him. "Listen!" he said. "You lured that chap down to that dive where he was set upon." "Monsieur, that is not true." Gregory dismissed her protest with a wave of his thin muscular hand. "Owing to the break I gave him he may have got clean away. On the other hand, those thugs may have run him down and knifed him." "No—no. If so, my friend would have told me of that when he telephoned just now." "Touche!" Gregory exclaimed, his smile broadening into a grin. "A confession, my dear Sabine, that those cut-throats were in your friend's employ, and that you knew it." Her dark eyes flashed. "Monsieur is clever but it is sometimes dangerous to know too much." 'It's Only the Beginning', Salem High Seniors Are Told

"I Choose America," enlarged upon the constitutional provisions of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

"Total freedom was not evident even after the Declaration of Independence or the Constitution, were adopted," Miss Hunter stated. "But, through wars and long, tiring struggles we have finally gained the personal freedom we have today."

"We also have freedom other than personal freedom which is just as important—freedom of social life and freedom of time. Social freedom and leisure time have developed together down through the years. We are free to choose for ourselves just what our social lives will be."

"Mistaken Idea of Freedom" "Education For Freedom" was the subject of the concluding talk, given by Harold Hoprich.

"We sometimes mistake the nature of freedom by thinking of it as the absence of control," he said. "The free individual is taken to be the person who has 'thrown off the brakes,' who allows his pulses full sway, who indulges in unrestricted self-expression."

"This is one freedom to be sure, but it is not the freedom struggled for by the wise men of the world. Worthy freedom is that in which the individual is free to realize the highest values, physical, moral and spiritual."

Hoprich pointed out two opposite tendencies at work in the present day; the one, a tendency antagonistic, both in intention and fact to freedom. He referred to Germany, Italy and Russia, where there is a complete subordination of the people to the state.

At the same time, however, he pointed out that "it would be a great mistake to believe that control of freedom is confined to the European countries which are governed by dictators; he would be very blind who did not see the same tendency at work among ourselves."

Hits "Party Discipline"

"We call ourselves a democracy and the foundation on which a democracy rests is the free expression of individual thought; but the rigidity of organization in our political parties has increased to such an extent that it is often referred to as 'party discipline' which deprives the individual of freedom of action and speech."

"The freedom for which our forefathers fought was primarily freedom from absentee political power. We now realize that the real encroachments upon the rights of the individual are not primarily political but economic."

"There is one domain, however, in which fear of government action never became dominant in American life," he continued.

"This is the domain of education. The American faith in education is grounded in the belief that without education the idea of free and equal opportunity is an idle fantasy and that a democracy is out of the picture."

In conclusion, he said, "While it is not always evident in the process, the goal for which the schools are trying is the freedom which comes through attempting, in the light of judgment, to create a better world."

'Handy Andy' Kohler Finds Fun, Profit In His Woodworking

A. W. Kohler, known as "Handy Andy," an expert in wood craftsmanship, has been attracting considerable attention with his intricate products at his small shop, 166 W. State st.

Happy, and all wrapped up in his work, Kohler has traveled from coast to coast displaying his craftsmanship at fairs and similar exhibitions. He came to Salem late last year and intends to stay here for quite some time before going to the New York World's Fair in 1939.

He was born in Switzerland in 1885 and has been following his trade ever since a boy. He is an expert in inlaid woodwork and some of the tables which he has built have hundreds upon hundreds of tiny pieces of multi-colored wood in the tops.

Many different kinds of wood have been constructed into the things "Handy Andy" turns out. These include Tennessee cedar, black walnut, old fashioned sage, maple and ebony. The latter is one of the most expensive woods.

Many of the articles he makes, including a hand-carved Swiss village, were put on display in a window of the Famous market today.

The panel includes: East Liverpool—Mrs. Kathryn Pearce, John W. Grant, Mrs. E. Allen McKeever, Richard Waggle, Mrs. Julius Erlander and L. W. Orr of R. D. 1, Wellsville—Gladys McDevitt, Voligt Kessel, Ernest Redmund, Anna McLean and Eva Musser.

East Palestine—Mrs. Wyetta McCowan, Rev. W. H. Oelschlaeger, Arthur Berrey, Lisbon—J. A. Noble, Mrs. Dora Gorsuch, Mrs. F. B. Drake, R. D.; George Riddle, R. D.; Charles Kelly, R. D.; Leetonia—Florence Fire; Rogers—H. W. Moran; Salem—Wallace W. Kyle; Winona, Star Route—Les Whinnery; Salineville, R. D. 1—Beulah Seiger.

One criminal case and possibly two will be heard by a jury selected from the venire. Purle Howell of Newell, W. Va., will be tried June 20 on a burglary and larceny charge. Howell's first trial in May resulted in a hung jury. He is accused of robbing a grocery store owned by Russell Heddeleston of East Liverpool last February.

Joe Domanski of Lisbon, indicted for selling numbers, also may come before the jury provided he does not withdraw a plea of not guilty before his trial is assigned.

Probe Mine Thefts

SCHOOL ISSUE SUPPORT ASKED

F. P. Mullins, Board President, Cites Need of Building

High and other schools 240 will enter high school, making a net increase for next year of 78 students. This will mean a total enrollment of approximately 1,000 pupils.

To force this increased enrollment into an already badly congested building is unfair to the students and a serious handicap on the teaching staff. This enrollment will give us approximately 55 students per class room, whereas the state department of education recommends, for efficient work, classes of not more than 30.

"Because of this congested condition, the board of education is going to ask the voters at the Aug. 9 primaries to authorize a bond issue in the amount of $65,000 to enable us to build a wing on the north side of the High school building, a wing that will provide three large assembly rooms or laboratories and four additional class-rooms. You will recall that a similar wing was built on the south side of the building in 1928, so that this proposed wing will merely complete the original plans which contemplated the full utilization of the building and grounds at minimum expense."

"The board of education solicits your support of this project: First, because the need for additional facilities is imperative. Second, because this new construction will provide work for quite a few men this summer when many men will, no doubt, find it difficult to find work elsewhere. Third, because it will probably be possible to secure assistance from the federal government at this time. A great deal of money is to be spent for public improvements and to the raising of these funds Salem will contribute its share. Therefore, let's try to get our share of the disbursements. Fourth, bonds can be sold now at a very low interest rate, probably half of the rate paid on the last bonds issued by the board of education."

"That the Salem schools have been operated efficiently and economically is evidenced by the fact that our bonded indebtedness is relatively very low. Our per capita cost of education is $38.13 as against an average for the state of $136.04."

"While we realize everyone's reluctance to increase the tax burden during such difficult times as we are now going through, let us look ahead with faith in the future and give the children of Salem the break to which they are entitled. The cost of this bond issue in increased taxes will amount to less than 60c on every $1,000 dollar of valuation, and by the time these taxes are placed on the tax duplicate next year there is every reason to believe that business will be on the up and up."

Town No Better Than Schools

"We are counting on you friends of the schools not only to support this bond issue yourselves but to get out and earnestly work for the success of it."

"Salem has had a very enviable record in the progressive and constructive attitude it has always shown towards its school system. A town is no better than its schools, so let's all strive to maintain the outstanding reputation which we have achieved."

M'CALL ADMITS KILLING CHILD

Reveals Details of Florida Crime to FBI Chieftain

a puzzling angle which Hoover did not explain.
He said McCall directed agents to both hiding places. The major portion of the money was found cached in an orchard early Wednesday, but where officers discovered the $245 late yesterday was Hoover's secret.
Dr. Thomas Otto of Miami, who was with agents when they found the body, said it was in such an advanced state of decomposition there was little evidence for a post-mortem. He expressed the opinion the kidnaper killed the child before tossing him face up into a thicket.
Circuit Judge Arthur Gomez called a special grand jury session Monday morning to consider any charges State Attorney George A. Worley may bring against McCall. Hoover said no federal law was involved in the case. Florida provides a death penalty for kidnapping for ransom, however. A jury has the prerogative of recommending mercy, in which case a sentence of life imprisonment is mandatory.
Accompanied Father
McCall, a truck driver and minister's son, had lived until last April in an apartment in the Cash's residence. He accompanied Cash on a mission which resulted in the finding of the first of three ransom notes at the home of Asbury Cash, an uncle of the boy.
The second note was found in a Negro shack. McCall himself delivered the third note, saying he discovered it under the door of a filling station owned by W. P. Cash.
This fact led to his arrest. Sheriff D. C. Coleman said he noticed the note had been wadded in a ball and became suspicious because it could not have been slipped under the door in that shape.
Then, the sheriff said, he learned McCall had established a false alibi. Taken to federal agents by the sheriff, McCall was released after questioning. He returned to Princeton and joined the widespread search for the boy while G-men secretly kept watch on him.
He was brought to Miami again and held several days before Hoover announced the arrest and confession.

APPROPRIATION PEAK IS NEAR

Current Congress To Set All-time Mark In American History

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Appropriations in the current congressional session will reach the highest peacetime peak in American history.

Figures prepared by the house appropriations committee on bills pending or already enacted showed today the total probably would be between $11,838,622,468 and $12,281,994,764.

The previous record, except for World War years, was $10,590,833,165 voted in 1936. That included $2,237,000,000 for payment of the soldiers' bonus. Congress appropriated $9,356,174,982 in 1937.

Two factors are responsible primarily for this year's increase.

1. The house and senate reauthorized President Roosevelt to increase more than threefold his original recommendation of a billion dollars for relief of the unemployed.

2. The social security program has meant a billion-dollar addition to the government's permanent appropriations since last year.

The legislators already have provided an extra $250,000,000 for relief to be expended by July 1. The relief and public work bill to help the needy after that date carried $2,917,905,000 in outright appropriations as passed by the senate, but the final figure will be determined by a senate-house committee.

Representative Taber (R-N.Y.), senior Republican member of the appropriations committee, figured this session's spending at nearly $13,500,000,000.

Since government revenue will supply only a fraction of that amount, he said, the treasury will have to do some heavy borrowing and the public debt will jump to $45,600,000,000 by July 1, 1939 — the limit now authorized by law.

Mindful of the president's statement that developments abroad made it imperative to strengthen the nation's defenses, the lawmakers approved a billion-dollar fund for the army and navy—another peacetime record.

Cabinet picnic, Phil Kappa Tau, Mount Union college; Friday evening, June 17, Columbiana County Bar association; June 17, Columbiana Lutheran church choir; Manager C. P. Coppock states that 70 reunions are already booked for the summer and a number also for 1939.

The members of the relay team of the Columbiana High school track squad, Robert and William Entriken, Richard Fisher and Clyde Bauer, with Coach Waldo Ward and Manager Walter Holloway, were entertained Thursday evening at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gamble, Boardman. Mrs. Gamble is a sister of the Entrikens.

The Columbiana Mothers club will hold a lawn party next Monday at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Donald Zellers. The new officers will be installed: President, Mrs. H. P. Campbell; vice president, Mrs. K. T. Gornley; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. R. E. Brunsard.

The annual Children's day program will be held Sunday at the Presbyterian church starting at 10:45. The program will include music by the junior choir and the Sunday school orchestra.

The degree team of Pandora Rebekah lodge will hold a special practice Monday at 8 p. m. in I. O. O. F. hall. All members are urged to attend or send a substitute.

The Past Noble Grand club of Pandora Rebekah lodge held its June meeting Thursday evening in I. O. O. F. hall.

THEATER Attractions

"Rascals," showing at the State theater tonight and Saturday, brings Jane Withers to the screen again in a new series of adventures, the child actress this time playing the role of a gypsy princess.

The troupe of gypsies includes Borrah Minevitch, Robert Wilcox and Steffi Duna, well as the Minevitch harmonica band. The gypsies are forced to make a hurried exit from the last town and when they make camp a short distance away they find Rochelle Hudson, who has been struck by a car and has lost her memory.

The accident victim, richly dressed, knows nothing about herself except that she was running away from something at the time she was hurt.

Accepted By Gypsies

The gypsies all accept her as one of them and she joins the band, but Wilcox's interest in the girl makes his former sweetheart, played by Steffi Duna, jealous and she arranges to get rid of the newcomer.

In another town Rochelle is again hurt in a scuffle with police. She is taken to a doctor who tells her that the only cure is a delicate operation.

The gypsies put on a show to raise the money for her operation. When she recovers she is found to be the daughter of a wealthy but socially ambitious woman who has engineered a marriage with a fortune-hunting baron.

Wilcox, aided by the gypsy entourage, breaks up the wedding to the baron and he and Miss Hudson are married instead.

The Grand features the Three Mesquiteers in "Outlaws of Sonora" tonight and Saturday.

WASHINGTONVILLE

The Elizabeth class of Trinity Lutheran Sunday school held its monthly class party in the church parlors on Wednesday evening. A covered dinner was served at 7:30. A business session followed and a social hour was enjoyed. This was the last meeting until fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Weikart and mother Mrs. Helen Weikart, attended the wedding of Miss Jessie Hinds of Kent and Thomas Crothers, at Kent on Saturday. Mr. Crothers is employed as teacher in the Washingtonville school. They expect to make their home on West Main street here.

Thomas Barton of Tacoma, Wash., who has been visiting relatives here, the past two weeks, left for his home on Thursday evening.

Rev. Craig Schwartz and daughter Margaret of Tonawanda, N. Y., are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Justice and family.

TOLEDO—Bingo games here have been banned by police, backed by City Manager John N. Edy. Edy said that the way to clear out "chiseling gamblers" is to get them before they get a start. "If the order interferes with church or fraternal parties, it's just too bad," he said.

CITY MIBS KING
RETAINS THRONE

Wins 7 In Row to Nail
Title and Qualify

in the finals. He will be receiving his second opportunity to win a free 11-day trip to the national marble matches at Wildwood, N. J., in July.

Accompanying Bob to Canton will be the seven boys he met in the city finals and J. M. Kelley, manager of the Memorial building and city recreation director, who was in charge of The News tournament for the second consecutive year. The local mibsters will watch their champion play in the morning and be entertained at dinner at noon.

Good at "Comeback"

Bob not only demonstrated his sharp-shooting skill to other finalists yesterday, but also displayed the ability to come from behind to win in two matches, his opponent knocked six marbles out of the circle and needed only one more to win. But this apparently did not bother Bob's steady shooting. He rallied in both instances to shoot all the remaining marbles from the ring and win the match.

Four boys—Raymond Scullion of Reilly school, Jack Smith of McKinley, Henry Vender of St. Paul's and Walter Schneider of Junior High—fied for runner-up honors in the finals with four wins and three losses.

Smith won four straight matches before suffering his first defeat. He then lost two more contests to drop out of the running for championship honors.

Action in the four rings which were used to conduct the championship matches on Reilly stadium's running track was considerably faster than last year and the play of the finalists was better than in the 1937 matches.

Final Standing

Here's how the eight shooters finished:

Won	Lost
Bob Pasco, defending champ.	7 0
Raymond Scullion, Reilly	4 3
Henry Vender, St. Paul's	4 3
Jack Smith, McKinley	4 3
Walter Schneider, Jr. High	4 3
George Drakulich, Prospect	3 4
Don Pasco, Columbia	2 5
Bobby Brown, Fourth St.	0 7

The seven victories gained by Bob Pasco were as follows: Scullion, 7-3; Drakulich, 7-0; Don Pasco, 7-6; Schneider, 7-1; Vender, 7-6; Brown, 7-2, and Smith, 7-2. Summaries of the finals and scores of matches follow:

ROUND ONE—D. Pasco defeated Vender, 7-2; Drakulich defeated Brown, 7-2; R. Pasco defeated Scullion, 7-3; Smith defeated Schneider, 7-2.

ROUND TWO—Smith defeated Pasco, 7-1; R. Pasco defeated Drakulich, 7-0; Schneider defeated Vender, 7-3; Scullion defeated Brown, 7-4.

ROUND THREE—Schneider defeated Brown, 7-0; Smith defeated Scullion, 7-6; Vender defeated Drakulich, 7-6; R. Pasco defeated D. Pasco, 7-3.

ROUND FOUR—R. Pasco defeated Schneider, 7-1; Drakulich defeated Smith, 7-5; Vender defeated Scullion, 7-5; D. Pasco defeated Brown, 7-1.

ROUND FIVE—Smith defeated Brown, 7-1; R. Pasco defeated Vender, 7-6; Drakulich defeated D. Pasco, 7-5; Scullion defeated Schneider, 7-4.

ROUND SIX—Schneider defeated D. Pasco, 7-2; Scullion defeated Drakulich, 7-1; R. Pasco defeated Brown, 7-2; Vender defeated Smith, 7-4.

ROUND SEVEN—Vender defeated Brown, 7-0; R. Pasco defeated Smith, 7-3; Schneider defeated Drakulich, 7-4; Scullion defeated D. Pasco, 7-3.

Completes Inspection

The annual inspection of the rural mail routes has been completed by Leigh Whitney, superintendent of mails at the postoffice.

As a result of the inspection, Whitney appealed today to patrons to clean up their mail boxes if necessary. He explained that unserviceable and unsightly rural mail boxes retard the delivery of mail and detract from the natural scenic beauty of the highways.

The department has banned the non-regulation, old type of top-opening receptacles which expose mail to the elements.

Speaks to Legion

Boys who are members of Junior American Legion organizations are expected to hear Roger T. Peckinpah, former major league baseball figure, when he speaks here tonight.

His talk will be given at the Memorial building as a feature of the Legion's county council meeting.

Fire Chief Returns

Fire Chief Vincent L. Malloy returned yesterday from Lima where he attended the three-day session of the 21st annual Ohio Fire Chiefs' convention.

Washingtonville
Memorial Planned

WASHINGTONVILLE, June 10.—The village council, by resolution, has granted the Washingtonville Memorial association permission to construct a monument to commemorate the village's service men.

Plans call for the erection of the marker on Broad street, north of Main and extending to High st. The monument will be on a strip of land in the center of Broad st.

Council, at a recent meeting, appealed to the county commissioners to act as sponsors for the WPA project to complete the laying of sidewalks, begun in 1937.

John Nolan Host

STEUBENVILLE, June 10.—Leaders of Ohio's Democratic party gathered here today for John F. Nolan's annual political rally.

At a huge outdoor meeting primary opponents for governor and United States senator were to share speaking honors with other state candidates.

Democrats regard the rally as the official opening of the campaign season. Nolan is Jefferson county Democratic chairman and prominent in Ohio political circles.

'SPUDS' GROWERS
CALL MEETING

Rally at Greenford June 13; Conservation Parley Planned

A meeting of all potato growers of Columbiana and Mahoning counties will be held in the Greenford grange hall, five miles northeast of Salem, on Monday, June 13, at 8 p. m., to discuss the proposed federal potato marketing agreement, and to elect delegates to a hearing on the agreement to be held at Ravenna, June 17.

Growers in the commercial counties of Ohio will vote in July on the question of whether or not a marketing agreement shall be put into effect. If two thirds of the producers and one half of the handlers approve of the agreement it will go into effect and will prohibit the shipment of cull potatoes in interstate commerce.

However, there would be no restriction on the sale of cull potatoes within the state. The provisions will be discussed at the Greenford meeting.

A demonstration in construction of a septic tank for farm homes will be given by I. P. Blausser of Ohio State university at a meeting to be held at the home of Richard Speidel in Hanover township Friday, July 1, at 10 a. m. John Strausbaugh, assistant county extension agent, Lisbon, has arranged the demonstration for the benefit of persons throughout the county who are installing septic tanks.

Township agricultural conservation committees will receive instructions on checking performance at a meeting to be held in the court room in Lisbon on Monday, June 13. Chris Kainrad of Portage county, field supervisor, will give the instructions for the check up work to begin July 1.

Farmers who wish to participate in the 1938 agricultural conservation program will have opportunity to make application prior to that date, according to R. W. Armstrong, president of the County Agricultural Conservation association.

Payments will be made to farmers to participate in keeping their acreages of soil depleting crops within their allotments and for carrying on certain soil building practices. Payments for partial performance will also be made up to the point where the deductions for excess depleting acreage or for failure to achieve the soil building goal equal the amount of payments.

The program is entirely voluntary with no compulsory acreage limits, Armstrong stated. Allotments and goals have been established for each farm, but only those who later make application will participate in the payments.

Crop insurance for the 1939 wheat crop will also be available to Columbiana county farmers who care to participate in the insurance program. This is a new feature of the Agricultural Conservation Program Act passed by congress this last winter.

It not only provides a form of insurance against loss of the crop from drought, hail, floods, and other uncontrollable causes, but establishes the so-called "ever normal granary" which will protect consumers in case of a series of short crops. Applications for crop insurance will be received by the county conservation committee beginning next week. Local meetings have been held in most of the townships to explain the program.
